

The Dear Jane collection, c. 1863 by Brenda Papadakis

Rich in history, the quilt upon which the Dear Jane audience is inspired by was actually made by Jane A. Stickle during the Civil War. She signed her quilt “In War Time 1863”. The masterpiece consists of 169 blocks measuring 4-1/2” square, surrounded by 52 8”x5” triangles and four corner triangles.

But it is more than the variety of the pieced and appliquéd blocks that evoke such strong emotion among “Janias”. The quilt has its own unique “aura” that transcends generations, reaching quilters of varied levels of skill, age and style. The quilters profess a heartfelt, soul-searching experience as they work to create their own unique interpretation of the blocks – a connection to their “sister” Jane.

Mention Dear Jane® and Brenda Papadakis is the first name that comes to mind, so it was only logical for Windham Fabrics, the leading name for reproduction fabrics, to work with Brenda to design the beautiful, new Dear Jane® collection. Now DJers can create their “Baby Janes” with fabrics authentically reproduced from their vintage counterparts and die-hard reproduction enthusiasts can take advantage of these beautiful patterns and colors that are the essence of Jane Stickle.
